

A political cartoon by W. D. Howells. The scene depicts a group of men in formal attire, including top hats and suits. On the left, three men are standing and talking; one is wearing a top hat and a dark suit, another a bowler hat and a light suit, and a third a top hat and a dark suit. In the center, a large man in a bowler hat and a dark suit is walking towards the right. Behind him, a man in a top hat and a light suit is walking, holding a fishing rod with a fish on it. To the right of the fisherman, a man in a bowler hat and a dark suit is walking, holding a bag with a dollar sign on it. The cartoon is signed 'W. D. Howells' in the bottom left corner.

JAMES W. BOYLE.

GRUBER ASSURES QUIGG OF LOYALTY.

Proves That He Is Not
"Throwing" Candidate Fallows.

M'CULLAGH MEN BUSY.

Served "When We See
the Men," He Says.

There was more than usual interest manifested at the Republican County Headquarters yesterday when Abraham Gruber, leader in the Twenty-first District went into the building and made straight for Mr. Quigg's private room. Gruber had left behind none of his fighting qualities. He was admitted to be an open question as to the reception that he would receive.

There was no excitement, however, so far as the men in the outer office could distinguish. With Gruber there was Armistead Matthews, candidate for Alderman the Twenty-first; William S. Bennet, chairman of the Campaign Committee, in the district, and Edward H. Fallows, member of the Magnet Committee, candidates for Aldermen.

of the Mast Committee, candidate for Assembly. Word had gone forth that Gruber did not care to elect Mr. Fallows. Therefore the conference.

All left the conference arm in arm. There followed this explanation: Gruber had said the other night: "We must work extra hard to elect Matthews."

This had been construed as a "throw down" for Fallows.

"But," said Gruber yesterday, "Mathews has to fight both the 'Clits' and the Democrats, while Mr. Fallows has not nearly so hard a row to hoe."

Thus the spirit of amicability was brought back to the Twenty-first.

Superintendent McCullagh and his deputies had another hard day yesterday. They obtained so many warrants from so many different courts that the rumor went forth that a wholesale raid was to be made today.

"No truth in it at all," McCullagh said last night. "Of course there are many more that we want. We are getting these warrants now so when we see our men we Perez M. Stewart's fine of $250 by Judge Thomas in the Criminal Term of the United States Circuit Court for failing to obey summons to appear and qualify as a juror, fanning the flames of political rivalry in the Mazet district yesterday.

Tainmany men denounced the act as a outrage and laid it at the door of each individual Republican from Platt down to

This is the way it happened: Steward was served with a summons to appear a few days ago, but forgot all about it in the excitement of his campaign work. His mind was jogged when he received a telephone message from United States Marshal William Henkel yesterday morning telling him that Judge Thomas wanted to see him.

He hurried down to the court. When he arrived at the Federal building he was lectured by the Judge and fined $250.

When Mr. Croker was informed of this he said that it was worth a thousand vote for Stewart. "These men will do anything to help Mazet," he said. "It seems now that the McKinley Administration and the courts are being dragged in to aid Platt's tool. It's an outrage."

The Physician to whom Thousands go or write for Advice is Dr. Greene, 35 W. 14th St., New York City, the famous and successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, and discoverer of that greatest of all cures, Dr. Greene's Nervous and Chronic Granady. If your family physician has failed to cure you, why not consult or write about your case to this skillful specialist? It will cost you nothing to get his advice and counsel, for he gives consultation absolutely free. —[Adv.]